Everyone Sees It. No One Can Do Anything.

The Scene

A signal turns red. Cars keep going. No police. No camera. No consequence. A tea stall owner watches every single violation — helpless, frustrated, powerless.

With CivicGuard

He opens the app, records the violation with GPS + timestamp, and submits. A fine is issued. He earns a reward.

"Give citizens control over their city. Turn fine revenue into transparency."

What Is CivicGuard? MVP Scope

A mobile app that turns every citizen into a verified civic reporter — and every fine into shared, transparent government revenue.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Fine: ₹500 – ₹5,000

- Red light jumping — video evidence required
- Wrong-way driving
- No helmet / triple riding
- No seatbelt & illegal parking
- Reckless driving

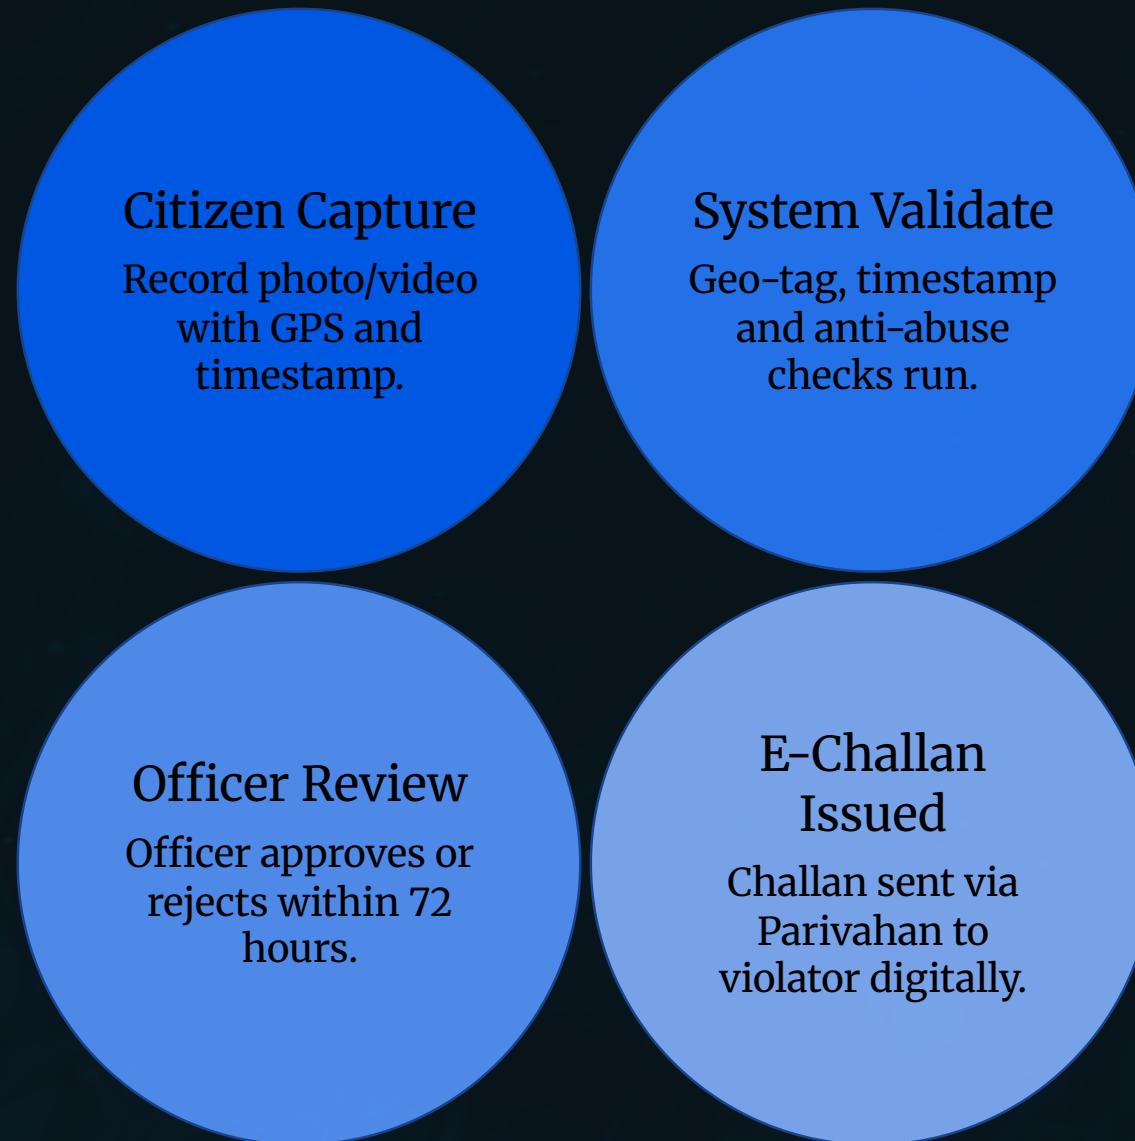

CLEAN NEIGHBOURHOOD

Fine: ₹200 – ₹1,000

- Spitting in public offices & govt spaces
- Littering in civic areas
- Dirty government premises
- Open urination in public

  Key Rule: Every report requires timestamped, GPS-tagged video or photo. Screenshots rejected. No evidence = no report.

From Report to Challan: How It Works

- ☐ ⚖️ Officer Authority: Officer always has final authority. No challan is issued without officer review and approval. No citizen-accused contact — ever.

Digital Police: A Secure, Anonymous Voice

A special reporting channel for civic issues that are typically silenced — harassment, suspicious activity, misbehaviour by officials — where people fear reporting openly.

- Theft or suspicious activity
- Misbehaviour by govt officials
- Civic issues people hesitate to report publicly
